Anna is a freshly divorced poet of moderate success. But thanks to her ex, she's facing a huge stack of bills, and she's in over her head. She needs a job. The only offer she's gotten is to teach a poetry class over the summer. It won't earn her much money, and when she arrives for the first class, she learns that her students are mostly older people looking for something to do. But when Anthony—a strong, sexy man with dark hair and captivating eyes—walks into the classroom, she feels an instant connection to him. His relaxed manner and genuine honesty put her at ease, but the intensity lurking underneath is what really draws her in. She knows it's too soon after her divorce, and she knows she should get her life in order before she plunges herself into another relationship—but with a man like Anthony, she's finding it his fiery passion very hard to resist.

Torn:

James Stovall has already achieved success, but now, at the peak of his career, he feels uninspired, trapped, and wonders what it's all been for. When Monica arrives on the first day of work as his teaching assistant, he realizes she just may be the muse he's needed: the perfect antidote to his troubles and one he'll do anything to keep under his control.

Monica has always been in control of her life and determined to achieve success on her own terms; but, as she learns, sometimes the greatest satisfactions in life come from giving up control, to a powerful man with a mysterious past who you barely know...

Obey:

Emily's job is to find out what businesses are doing wrong, and tell them how to do it better—but at BruCom everything is perfect...including its irresistibly handsome owner, Mark Brume. With his immaculately tailored physical presentation and intensely blue eyes, Mark draws Emily to him like a moth to a flame—but he leaves her feeling unsure. She can't tell whether he is being professionally courteous, or something more flirtatious...that is, until he invites her to an awards ceremony where he makes his intentions perfectly clear. That one night will change everything Emily thought she knew about being with a controlling, dominating, and drop dead sexy businessman. The question is, is Emily ready to submit to him and her own urges?
